

From: David Bennion
To: Microsoft ATR
Date: 12/6/01 11:38am
Subject: Microsoft needs to be broken up

It is clear that Microsoft wields too much power in the market place. They need to be broken up. This settlement idea of giving software to kids in schools will not change the fact that Microsoft is a monopoly. In fact, it will only enhance it by getting the children trained only on Microsoft products from the time they are in school.

Microsoft has engaged in many aggressive, anti-competitive business practices, and a change needs to be made. There are many good ideas out there on actions that could be taken against them.

David Bennion.

Get your FREE download of MSN Explorer at <http://explorer.msn.com/intl.asp>